Human mobility in disaster contexts

Multiple challenges:

- Large numbers: 24+ mio newly displaced p.a.
- Multiple forms: Planned relocation, migration, displacement (internal/cross-border)
- Multiple causes: Hazards, demography, socio-economic factors, governance, etc.
- Multiple vulnerabilities: Women, children, indigenous communities, etc.
- A cross-cutting issue: Migration management, climate change, DRR, development, human rights, etc.

When do people have to move?

Hazard + Exposure + Vulnerability

PDD as a partner

GCM, Objective 2, para 18(l):

“Develop coherent approaches to address the challenges of migration movements in the context of sudden-onset and slow-onset natural disasters, including by taking into consideration relevant recommendations from State-led consultative processes, such as the Agenda for the Protection of Cross-Border Displaced Persons in the Context of Disasters and Climate Change, and the Platform on Disaster Displacement.”

What PDD can offer

- An example of cross-regional and multi-stakeholder partnership
- A champion of the topic in the implementation and follow-up
- A source of knowledge and experience (examples)
- Support for regional processes (examples)
